

THREE AMERICANS FALL VICTIMS OF VILLA AND BAND

he is understood to have left a wife and two children.

Locke's escape was due to the fact that he was absent from Minaca at the time Villa arrived. He was turning to the town when he heard firing and hid in the bushes. Soon afterward he saw some cavalymen leaving the town with Villa himself at their head. Locke fled by night to Cushtudic where a friendly Mexican hid him in a cellar for two days. Villa arrived later and searched the town for Americans. After he had gone, Locke sent the Mexican who had befriended him, to Minaca and the latter brought back the story of the massacre. Locke then disguised himself as a peon and made his way safely to Chihuahua City where he told his story.

ELECTION FUSS BRINGS ABOUT FOUR ARRESTS

Savannah Robinson to the polls at the primary election, instructed her how to vote and told her how to mark her ballot, knowing Savannah Robinson at the time not to be twenty-one years of age.

He was taken to the police station and was admitted to bail in the sum of $100.

He will be given a hearing Monday before Judge McBride. Solly is employed by the city as a teamster at $2.50 per day, and is assigned to the street department. He professed ignorance last evening of the reason for his arrest.

The arrest of Gardiner came as a thunderbolt out of a clear sky. Not until The Republican announced yesterday morning that a sworn complaint had been filed with the city magistrate and a warrant issued, had the general public been aware of the sensation that was brewing. Gardiner was still in bed when Chief of Police Brisbois arrived at his home on South Seventh avenue, just outside the city limits. Before the big negro had time to arise, the chief read the warrant to him.

"What's it all about?" inquired Gardiner.

"You are charged with a felony according to the warrant," said the chief.

"All right; I'll come up to the city hall as soon as I have dressed and had my breakfast," continued Gardiner.

"All warrants look alike to me, and especially felony warrants," replied the chief. "You'll go back to the city hall when I do."

And Gardiner dressed as hurriedly as possible and accompanied Chief Brisbois to the presence of Judge McBride. As soon as he could place himself in touch with Attorney Laney he explained his predicament and Laney lost no time in reaching the city court room.

When seen yesterday afternoon, Gardiner would make no comment on his arrest nor the article in yesterday morning's Republican, beyond inquiring who wrote the story.

While Gardiner regained his liberty under bail for his appearance on Monday afternoon, Savannah Robinson was pacing back and forth in her cell in the city jail. Earlier in the day two warrants had been served on her, one charging her with having registered illegally, and the other with having voted illegally. Specifically she is charged with having registered knowing that she was but eighteen years old and that it is unlawful for a person less than twenty-one years old to register. On the same grounds she is charged with having voted illegally. She will be given a hearing on both charges on Monday, although she is still serving a ten days' sentence for vagrancy.

The Robinson girl talked freely and frankly when seen in the city jail yesterday afternoon by a reporter for The Republican.

"Fred Gardiner met me on the street late in the afternoon and told me he wanted me to go over to the city hall and register. He walked with me as far as the Colored Club on South Second street, right opposite the city hall. I told him I didn't think I was old enough to register, that I was only eighteen years old. He said that when a girl gets to be eighteen years old she can do anything."

"You go over and register and tell them you are twenty-one. You've got to vote on election day for our men, because if they are elected we can keep the Colored Club open and that means that your father will have a job at the club. My father is working at the club now and I wanted him to be able to keep his job."

"After I registered I went back and Gardiner asked me if I had registered. I told him I had. He said, 'That's right, and you mustn't forget to be on hand to vote.' He said that among other men I must vote for Mr. Woods, and for the man who was there before Mr. Woods. I don't remember his name now."

"On election day Solly came to my house and said that I must hurry up to the city hall and vote. I don't know Solly's other name. It was late in the afternoon and he told me I would have

UNIQUE ATTRACTION AT DONOFRIOS CONFECTIONERY STORE

Mr. G. Lightenberg, Wizard Ice King, Will Demonstrate His Odd Art.

When Mr. G. Lightenberg, wizard ice sculptor and soda fountain specialist, enters the carving enclosure on next Monday afternoon, April 3rd, at 2 o'clock the grand spring opening of the 1916 season will have started and Mr. Lightenberg, the "ice Marvel," will exhibit and carve the most unique and rare exhibit ever seen in Arizona, a sight that is well worth going miles to see.

This clever and bright entertainer will amuse, interest and refresh the public with his ice carving and original fancy fountain drinks, sandwiches and delicacies. The wizard has put in some hard licks at the ice plant and has prepared a wonderful exhibit to look at while his carvings in the parlor of the store will amaze you.

Mr. Lightenberg, without any contradiction, is the peer of them all in his profession. As an ice sculptor he has appeared at all the late World's Fairs and in vaudeville and made a decided hit this last year at San Diego and San Francisco Expositions.

MR. G. LIGHTENBERG,
Wizard Ice Sculptor and Soda Fountain Specialist

In direct competition at the Exposition at Cleveland, against his former associate partner, and only other man to successfully master this difficult work, Mr. Lightenberg achieved two world's records, carving the Goddess of Liberty Statue standing 7½ feet high and weighing 5000 pounds in the record time of 27 minutes while 300 pound models were produced in 4½ minutes and proclaimed by the vast numbers present marvelous. Mr. Lightenberg will carve Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, starting at 2 o'clock for the first performance and will on each of these days at 8 o'clock in the evening carve and duplicate the main model of the afternoon so those unable to be present in the afternoon will have an opportunity of seeing the famous Sculptor while in action. Carvings will be made of human and animal heads, birds and floral baskets, plaques, urns, vases and statues, as also countless display pieces.

Mr. Donofrio extends a cordial welcome to the citizens of Phoenix to pay the store a visit and witness this grand sight, a sight once seen never forgotten. Remember first performance of Ice Wizard at 2 o'clock, Monday, April 3rd.

the statement credited to him that he had threatened Healey, the alleged proprietor of the Washington street rooming house, with eviction unless he worked in the interest of George U. Young for election as mayor, was absolutely false. He denied ever having mentioned to Healey that he (Killeen) had a son employed in the office of the city magistrate.
